WASHINGTON, D.C. — Civil servants, public administrators and honored guests braved thunderstorms to join the National Academy of Public Administration's Celebration of the American Public Servant 250 Gala Monday evening, June 22.

Featuring luminaries like Washington, DC Mayor Muriel Bowser, Sen. Tammy Duckworth, former Fiscal Assistant Secretary and Acting Secretary of the Treasury David Lebryk, former U.S. Comptroller General Gene Dodaro and more, the event was conceived by the Academy to honor the best of public service during America's 250th anniversary.

After a welcome from Academy Board Chair Stan Soloway and Acting Librarian of Congress Robert Newlen, Academy President and CEO James-Christian Blockwood introduced the "Stories of Service" panel, which kicked off the program with moving anecdotes from the winners of marquee awards at all levels of government and civil service:

- Service to the Citizen Award Honoree: Kenneth Corbin, Chief, Taxpayer Services, Internal Revenue Service
- Partnership for Public Service Service to America Medal Honoree: David Lebryk, Former Fiscal Assistant Secretary and Acting Secretary of the Treasury
- Governing Public Official of the Year Honoree: Andrew J. Ginther, Mayor, Columbus, Ohio
- Arthur S. Flemming Award Honoree: Dr. William Phillips, Katharine Blodgett Gebbie Fellow and Nobel Laureate in Physics, NIST
- Government Executive Hall of Fame Inductee: Major General William J. Walker (Ret.), Former Sergeant at Arms, U.S. House of Representatives
- Leadership Connect Next Generation Leader Spotlight Honoree: Kaitly Wolfe, Deputy Assistant Secretary for House Affairs, U.S. Department of State

"Stories of Service" was followed by remarks from Senator Tammy Duckworth (IL) and a "Future of Public Service" panel featuring Inspector General Michael Horowitz, Federal Reserve Board & CFPB, Washington DC Mayor Muriel Bowser, and Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force (Ret.) JoAnne Bass.

“Some of the most brilliant thinkers are in public service,” Mayor Bowser said. “They work for the federal government, and they work for local government. They are innovators, and they are scientists. Young people, I find, don’t fully appreciate all the different things that they can do.”

“There’s no glamour and money, you’re there to serve a public need,” Sen. Tammy Duckworth (D-IL) said to the assembled auditorium crowd. “You’re there to serve your communities, you’re there to stand that ground and ensure that whatever code, whatever standard, whatever need needs to be met, is met. And that’s how I think about how you all serve.”

Finally, the Academy welcomed former U.S. Comptroller General Gene Dodaro, who was honored with the Academy’s first-ever “Keeper of the Public Trust Award” for his lifetime of public service.

“Being patient and persistent, that’s the hallmark of a good public servant,” Dodaro said when accepting the honor. “We need to always continue to press issues that need to be dealt with successfully. Look for targets of opportunity and build coalitions among people and build trusted relationships across branches and levels of government, across international allies and partners as well. That takes dedication and focused commitment.”
